CHILDREN IN NEED

Thank you for taking part in this recent fund raising event. The total raised at the last count was £65.00. This represents over one pound per child. It is worth remembering that if larger schools had the same level of success they could be raising hundreds or thousands of pounds - so you should be proud of yourselves. Thank you to Mrs Sandalls and her class for the Pudsey biscuits – they were delicious.

MISSING FLEECE

Someone has lost a fleece which had a much loved birthday present in the pocket. There is a name on the label in the side seam which may have faded a little but is still visible. Please can you check to see if you have your own fleeces at home? They all look alike and so it is easy to pop them in the washing machine without checking the name. Thank you. Someone would be very happy if the gift was returned.

THE C WORD

Christmas, of course! Now that the advertisements have appeared on the television it will be hard to escape. Later in November you will receive a letter explaining how we organise the tickets for the performances so that you can come along and feel proud of your child. There is no charge but we have traditionally organised raffles to raise money for school fund.

FOUR LEGGED FRIENDS

We are often described as a nation of dog lovers but there are very good reasons why we cannot allow our four legged friends onto the school playground. Whilst dog lovers treat them as a member of the family we are aware that not everyone shares this view. There are children who are frightened of dogs as well as those who love them. For this reason we are going to keep the path into school and the car park a dog free zone. If you have been bringing your dog to school, please do not take offence and talk to Mrs Bandey. There is a cunning plan . . .

CODE OF CONDUCT

Staff and Governors abide by a code of conduct which sets the standard of behaviour that is expected. When everyone follows this, there are no problems. However, were there ever to be an issue, the code provides the required standard of behaviour for reference.

We are very fortunate that we enjoy positive relationships with parents most of the time but there is a code of conduct for parents which could be used if there was ever a cause for concern. All the governors, including parent governors, have read through it and agreed that it would be good for the school to have a code for parents in place. This will go on the school website during this next week and hard copies will be sent out in due course.

QUESTIONNAIRE

So far, 11 questionnaires have been returned to school. These will be collated so that there is a record of parental views at this time. Please return any you still have to school by Wednesday 22 November if you wish your views to be included.
